Keating in Phnom Penh

Ronan Keating expressed his honour at being the first real international star to tour Cambodia in a press conference at the Hotel Cambodiana, hours before his May 9 concert in Phnom Penh's Olympic Stadium. Arranged by Glen Felgate, General Manager of Cambodia Television Network, and supported by major local sponsors including ANZ Royal, Cellcard, Total and the Hotel Cambodiana, the one-off concert is part of an Asian tour that includes Taipei and Bangkok.

"I'm delighted to be here," the Irish singer said at a press conference in the Hotel Cambodiana. "I can't wait to see more of the country".

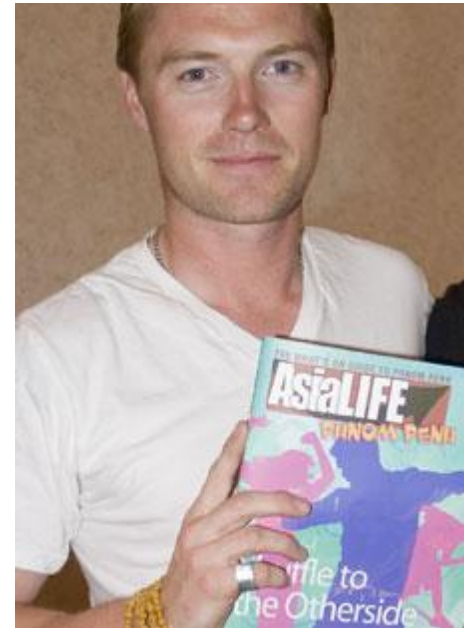

Although he didn't know quite what to expect for the turnout, the former Boyzone star promised to mix up "the flavour of the old albums, and some new songs as well."

Ronan is the first really world famous singer to perform in Phnom Penh, a responsibility he does not take lightly.

"I hope it will open some doors and that more musicians come here," he said. "It will hopefully make people realize it's a great country and be good for tourism here too."

Renowned for his work with charity, Ronan is collaborating with Total on a road safety campaign in Cambodia.

"It's a massive problem here, and hopefully this will bring some awareness to it," he said.
